RHS Pupils Anticipate Experiences Abroad

Carol Kayl, Leta Nolan, and JoAnn Nuhsbaumer are candidates for the Americans Abroad Program. Mrs. L. J. Lambert and Mrs. Hjalmer Haaland, representing the local AFS Chapter, will make the final selection on October 28.

Different from previous years, seniors are eligible, but for only the nine month program. Students accepted in Redfield are then required to fill out applications concerning themselves; languages, if any; a preference to the Northern or Southern Hemisphere and other references. In New York candidates are singled down to semifinalists, and approximately seven out of every ten will be sent abroad. Parents may contribute money to the cost, but this contribution is not required or necessary.

Joyce Goodwin traveled to Turkey in 1966 under the AFS program; and in 1969 Sandy Nuhsbaumer was selected for Ecuador and Perry Haaland, for Finland. All three were gone in the summer for a month. Also, each year RHS has a foreign exchange student from a different country.

Preparing For Selection Of College

Selection of a college or trade school is a most important decision to be made by the student seeking education beyond high school. The selection should be made only after the student in cooperation with his parents and counselors has made a careful study of the school to make sure that it meets his needs.

When narrowing the choice of colleges, a student should consider many things. Whether to attend a coeducational college, a church related or a tax-supported college, or a large or small school are a few items a student should consider. Will it be necessary to work while attending college? One's career plans and academic ability should also be closely considered.

When the student has narrowed his selection to two or three schools, he will want to obtain their catalogs and study them carefully with his counselor and parents.

College Days are held throughout South Dakota at various high schools. These days can be of great value to the high school student by bringing pre-admission college counselors to the high school. These people are well informed on the requirement for admission, on the various offerings and curricula of their schools, on the expense, the scholarships and the part time work opportunities. Redfield seniors will attend College Night in Aberdeen on November 2.

High school counselors are prepared to give their students some vocational guidance so that they will have a reasonable knowledge of what occupations and professions might be suitable to them. If the student has had some counseling and preparation before College Days are held, he will be prepared to go to the representatives of the schools that interest him and ask questions which will be helpful to him in making his choice of a school to attend.

Underclassmen should begin preparing now for their future profession. Redfield High School offers preparatory courses in almost any field desired.

How I See Pheasant Hunting

BY MAURICETTE DUVARRY

Overall, near Rockham, you can see pheasants flying as you approach. Never have I seen so many. In France, most of the wild animals are protected. During a very short period and from some special animals, we can hunt.

The pheasants hunting was opened here on October 17. Friday and Saturday bunches of hunters, coming from different states, make their home with several local families.

Since the morning, the shots disturbed the quietness of the country. The roads, usually deserted, were crossed by pickups loaded with hunters. In one, there were about ten and were going to a determined place. Arriving there, they dispersed themselves around. Carefully, they walked to surprise the game. Soon a flight of birds rose up from a group of trees. The birds screamed afraid. The hunters shoot. Some pheasants fell down, whirling round and round. The hunter yells victoriously and ran to find his poor victim. All the day they searched for roosters. For the evening, when they came back home, they were foundered. With ardor, they told about the hunting, how many they shot.

"B" Squad, Freshmen Team Complete Season With Faulkton, Webster Wins

Redfield's Pheasant "B" squad scored its final victory in a game against Faulkton here on October 20. They won by a score of 16-14.

Faulkton jumped into the lead with a first quarter touchdown. The Pheasants came back in the third quarter when Dean Jankord broke through the middle for a TD. The PAT was added with a pass from Russ Battey to Bob Roggenthen.

RHS scored again in the closing moments of the game to clinch the victory. Again it was Battey to Roggenthen on a TD aerial. The same pass combination clicked for the extra points.

MILLER

The RHS "B" squad defeated the Miller team in a game played here October 12. In the first quarter Bruce Cartner ran a punt back for a TD. He also carried for the PAT. Next it was Daryl Muellenberg who took the ball over for the TD. In the second quarter Redfield widened the gap with a score by Dean Jankord and an extra point by Cartner.

Pheasants To Meet Webster In Finale

Final action for RHS gridders will come October 30, when Webster hosts the Pheasants. Last year Redfield squeaked a 14-12 victory over the Bearcats on Homecoming. The first quarter ended scoreless, but Dave Battey helped put Redfield on the scoreboard first with a pass to Dennis Lovett. The touchdown aerial covered 15 yards. A pass from Battey to Welke was good for the conversion points. Roncalli countered with a 40 yard touchdown pass. The conversion attempt was successful.

The Pheasants picked up the last points of the half on a safety. With nine seconds remaining in the half, Bob Patterson tackled a Cavalier in the end zone following an interception. The halftime score was 10-8 in favor of Redfield.

In the third quarter, Patterson broke loose for a 35 yard sprint into the end zone. A pass for the conversion attempt failed. Roncalli picked up its second tally of the evening on a one yard plunge. The Cavaliers were unsuccessful in their conversion attempt. The third quarter ended with the Pheasant in the lead 16-14.

Patterson put the game out of reach in the fourth quarter when he went over from the two yard line. The points after the touchdown were picked up on a pass from Battey to Lovett. As there was no more scoring, Redfield defeated Roncalli 24-14.

Down through the ages customs and beliefs have changed slightly. The ancient Druids, who believed spirits roamed around, made huge bonfires to drive them off. In ancient Rome it was an occasion of rejoicing over the harvest. Nuts and apples were roasted before bonfires.

Later on Halloween became a night of mystery and fun-making. The English still have great bonfires and grotesque costumes. In America children dress up and go out trick-or-treating. Some parts of the country have corn husking bees, and almost every house will have a jack-o-lantern sitting on the front porch.

Redfield got back in the scoring column in the fourth quarter. Bob Patterson climaxed a drive with a short run for a touchdown. A pass from Battey to Ed Gallagher was good for the conversion. Redfield's final touchdown was scored by Bob Tiff on a pass play from Battey that covered five yards. A run for the conversion was unsuccessful.

Tiff, Patterson, and Lovett were cited as offensive standouts, while Ed Anderson and Dave Albrecht were credited with fine defensive performances.
