

Declamers Take District

Chris Pennington, Anella Shinnick, Ann Haynes, and Debby Jones display the trophy they won at the District Declam Contest at Faulkton on October 27. They will now proceed to the Regional Contest at Mobridge, November 10.

Declamers Advance, To Attend Regional

Traveling to Mobridge for the regional declam contest will be Ann Haynes, Debby Jones, Chris Pennington, and Anella Shinnick. The contest will be held November 10.

Receiving first superiors in district competition at Faulkton on October 27, were Anella Shinnick in the poetry division and Chris Pennington in humorous. Second superiors were received by Debby Jones in oratory and also by Ann Haynes in dramatic.

Brookings was the host school for the East River Student Congress October 31. Mr. Jack Holm took eleven students to the event.

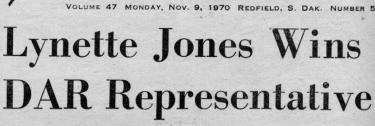

Joanna Jockheck, Tom Gallagher, and Leta Nolan were entered in the experienced Senate. Entered from Redfield in the experienced House of Representatives were Debby Jones, Marcene Gallup, and Bill Betten. Mauricette Duvarry observed in the Senate. Outstanding and superior speakers in each division were named.

Vicki Cockrell, Janet McNeely. Kay Waterman, Rita Silins, and Cenera Stuart participated in the inexperienced Houses. Mr. Holm said that he was pleased with the test from District 22. Besides the four RHS speakers there will be two students from Fairview, one from Faulkton, and one from Hoven competing. Because Redfield compiled the highest total of team points, Declam Coach Mrs. Lynelle Willits accepted the team trophy for District 22.

This is the third consecutive year that all four RHS speakers have advanced to regional competition. Last year the declam squad placed as the top school in declam in the state.

Chapter. The announcement was made November 3. JoAnn is a senior at Redfield High School and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nuhsbaumer of Zell.

The application for a complete school year in a foreign country has been submitted for consideration to the New York office. Last year JoAnn was a finalist for the summer Americans Abroad program but no home was available.

If a placement is secured, she will be the first RHS student to go abroad for a school year. Three previous RHS students have gone to various countries in the summer under the Americans Abroad program: Joyce Goodwin, Turkey; Perry Haaland, Finland; and JoAnn's sister, Sandy, Ecuador. JoAnn will be notified sometime next summer of her acceptance.

An opening in a German speaking country is hoped for as JoAnn has taken two years of German at RHS. Chorus, band, NFL, National Honor Society, and FTA are other activities in which she participates. JoAnn is also a banner girl, and has had perfect attendance for two years.

Scaling Communication Barriers

Superficial thoughts, words, and actions shadow our lives. We think without contemplation, speak what takes little explanation, and act without wanting complications.

Our involvements with most people extend only to gossip. We talk about the weather, when instead we should discover the personality. Personal opinions, likes, and dislikes bring out a segment of the personality.

A crowd appears to be a sea of faces unless we recognize people as individuals with their own ideas, hopes, and desires. When we converse with each other, we must understand — communicate.

We can learn from experiences and discussions with others. Our chances of learning depend on how many people we sincerely attempt to understand.

Goethe, a German philosopher, stated, "We learn only from those we love." A large part of love is understanding. Our friendship with others can be made meaningful by disclosing our feelings.

The fault of hiding our inner feelings will not bring happiness. Being secure from criticism will not make us secure.

Unsure of overselves, we hide behind a false image. The mask we wear can only delay the time when all people will be at peace with themselves and others.

William Shakespeare spoke the truth when he said, "Best men are moulded out of faults." To recognize mistakes then correct our behavior is an amiable goal. We must tear down the walls of our superficial lives and communicate!

I Hate Being In The Middle

Just about everyone has a major problem in his family - maybe a problem with an older brother or sister, or a little brother or sister that is worth his or her weight in absolutely nothing or as in my case, having an older sister and a younger sister making me the one in the middle.

Have you ever noticed that the second child is usually made the dog? If something is missing, it's the middle child that took it. If something's broken, it's the one in the middle that broke it. Yes, these are the troubles I have to live with, and to prove it, I'll list a few things that create a rather weird atmosphere at my house.

1. Just finding a new dent in the right fender of our family car, my folks put the blame on me. It doesn't matter that I haven't driven that car for over eight months and the dent was just discovered today.

2. Upon finding dirty dishes in the cupboard, where only clean dishes are to be allowed, your mother blames you. Who cares that you've just returned from a week's vacation from the family and as a result, haven't been home to do dishes for that length

French Teens Enjoy Activities

BY MAURICETTE DUVARRY

The life of the American and French teens is really different. First the school creates the biggest difference. Usually we have about ten subjects and the homework is very important. The authority of the parents is more important. We don't belong to several clubs as you.

Most of the children begin at eight or a bit later a collection: stamps, stones, coins, post-. . France is very near cards . from the other European countries, also during the vacations many families do exchange of student. Children can learn very

Seniors To Enjoy Pass Card System

Thirty-five seniors earned a 3.00 grade average the first nine weeks. Each of these will receive a passcard.

Passcards, initiated this year to RHS, guarantee these seniors open study halls, which enable them to leave school during their free periods. Only twenty-three seniors had this privilege during the first nine weeks.

A passcard student still must obey the current dress code of RHS. He cannot drive around during his freedom from school, and he must report to his next class on time. Continued violation of these rules may result in loss of one's card.

Passcards are still on an experimental basis. If the system works well without violators, the privilege may be extended to underclassmen next semester.

young another country and way o life.

We like the life in group. Teens like to meet each other at "La Maison des Juenes" (House o teens). Here people young come to bor row books and records, to hear music, to see movies, to learn how develop photos, to do theater, to paint. In big town we have theater, concerts, debate conferences, expositions in this house. These houses organize trips also. In wintertime, young people go to ski. After the sport we go in groups to prepare a huge fondue, after which we have songs and games. In summer we have "meschoui" (for picnic we roast a sheep and eat with different foods).

When we want to have a party, we borrow a room in this house and bring cakes, pop, records. Our dances are various: charleston, rock'n roll, jerk, waltz . . . But we have also the same as you. All dance. We do exchange with dancers.

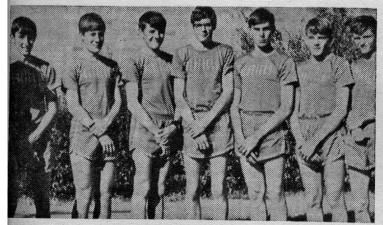

Many young people follow the fashion. In France we have a special fashion for boys who like to wear bell-bottom slacks, wide belts with very big buckle, shirts of all kinds. For the girls it is the same. In all schools we are allowed to wear slacks. Presently most of the girls wear the midi length dresses; and boys, maxi-

All the year, some teens work on the conservation of deserted villages, old castles and churches. Our history is very rich and we want to keep all these monuments. The work is difficult but a lot of fun. Many teens of other countries come to help us. When the villages are restored, we can go there all the year and do many activities such as sculpture, paint-

No further scoring occurred until the fourth quarter, when Patterson broke loose on a seventy yard touchdown run. Battey again passed for the extra points, this time to Dennis Lovett.

Manager Job Offers Knowledge Of Team

BY RANDY BUSH

Much work is connected with being a sports student manager. But surprisingly enough, benefits and honors are also gained.

Promptness, desire for work, and dedication are the main qualities of a good student manager. He must be down at practice immediately after school to prepare the material for the practice sessions. During the practice the manager must clean the equipment and supply rooms and perform other odd jobs around the locker room.

Sometimes the manager even gets time to rest and relax while the players are practicing. After the players return, the student manager is required to assist the players with removing tape and tending to minor cuts and bruises.

When the players have showered and left, the manager must mop down the locker room and pick up the various articles left behind. Finally the student manager is allowed to leave.

On the day of a game the manager must prepare all the game equipment and make sure he has all the necessary articles. If the student manager happens to for get a certain article, it could affect the team's performance that day. During the game the student manager must be ready with line coats, tape, chin straps, smelling salts, and other materials to keep the game moving. He is also expected to run water and towels out to huddle during a time-out to keep the players refreshed.

Many rewards are obtained by being a sports manager. The boy can feel that he is a real part of the team. He learns about some of the things involved in the makeup of an athletic team. If he has done a good job, he knows that he has contributed to the pride of his team and of his school.
