also succeeds in matching up the young and beautiful Widow Molloy with Vandergelder's head clerk, Cornelius Hackle; Cornelius' assistant, Barnaby Tucker, with Mrs. Molloy's assistant, Minnie Fay; and the struggling artist, Ambrose Kemper, with Mr. Vandergelder's weeping niece, Ermengarde.

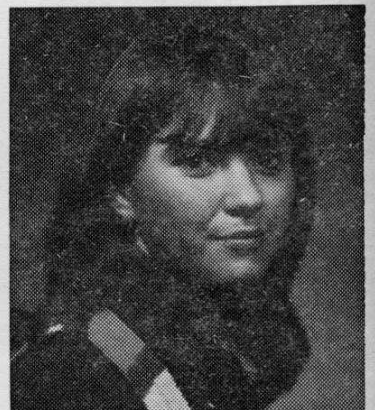

Mrs. Levi tracks Vandergelder to his hay and feed store in Yonkers, then by train back to Mrs. Molloy's hat shop in New York, out into the streets of the city where they are all caught up in the great Fourteenth Street Association Parade, and finally to the most elegant and expensive restaurant in town, the Harmonia Gardens, where Dolly is greeted by the waiters, cooks, doormen, and wine stewards in one of the most famous songs in the history of American musical comedy, "Hello, Dolly!"

Social Revolution Affects School

Recently, book stores, magazine racks and libraries have been flooded with books which deal with a very relevant and very popular topic. The topic that is drawing the readers is not sex, but social upheaval, revolution.

Why has this issue begun to catch on? The answer is not a one word response. It is a very broad and complicated answer, one which is a product of many years of evolution. Man, at least some of them, have come to the realization that perhaps our species has developed a technological world which we cannot cope with psychologically. Therefore, the contemporary authors are calling for a new society and a new culture. Our present beliefs and values and priorities are leading us into a self-determined destruction. We must discover our shortcomings immediately, and begin our transition in the very near future if we hope to continue as the dominant species.

Although the home determines to a great extent the behavior of an individual, the educational system can be the pioneer in this movement since it does help determine how people will behave in society. Whether it will take the lead is open to speculation. Since the primary goal of the social revolution would be to restore each person's individuality, the school could reverse its present direction which actually contributes to the loss of self. From the beginning school teaches students how to conform and how to find a place in society.

The regimentation and discipline are exploited to the extent of insanity. School is intensely concerned with teaching students to stop thinking and start obeying. It teaches one to accept authority without question and respect authority simply because of its position. Democracy is praised in theory by the school but rejected in practice. Independence and democracy have become two of the greatest sins in the school.

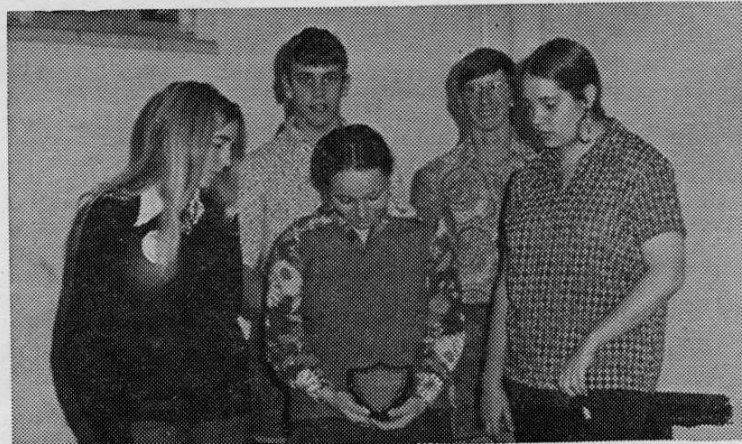

The school tries to force-feed a whole set of values and attitudes about advertising business competition, success, and the American way of life. And this is carried on amid an atmosphere of dishonesty and hypocrisy. No one will admit that the methods of teaching may be wrong, that the textbooks might be boring and outdated, that much of what the school does might not be in the best interest of the students, and that there could be other ways of providing an educational experience. This side of the story can no longer be hidden from the students or another generation may have to suffer the consequences of an unadapted society. Do we want that?

Nacor's News

Venezuelan Trys Sports

First, I will give a few of my impressions of Thanksgiving. It is something new to me, since we do not celebrate Thanksgiving in Venezuela.

On November 23, I woke up as usual and I was preparing for a normal day. When I turned on TV I saw many parades and celebrations, and then I remembered it was Thanksgiving. I was very impressed with the celebrations on television. I did not expect a big meal at noon so when I saw the tremendous amount of food before us, I was shocked.

In Venezuela we have feasts also but they are always in the evening. It is strange that we also eat turkey at our feasts. In the afternoon I went hunting. For me Thanksgiving was just another day, except that I had no classes and I got a very good meal. I could see that it was special to the Americans though.

Last weekend was also good because I discovered my favorite American sport, basketball. I really liked the fast action displayed in basketball. I got very excited at the game and when it was over I had a sore throat. I was really impressed with the enthusiasm of the fans and I am glad to be one. I have a pretty good understanding of the game of basketball since it is played a little in Venezuela. My favorite aspects of the game are watching a fast break and seeing someone make a long shot.

As for wrestling, I like it, too, but it does not have as much motion and activity as basketball. I made about as much force cheering as the wrestlers made. I don't understand wrestling as well because wrestling is not a school sport in Venezuela. It is relatively unpopular in my country. I was particularly impressed by the wrestlers' love of the sport and their dedication because it is such hard work and especially controlling their weight.

I tried both sports for one night each. It was pretty interesting. That was the first time I had participated in either sport. I didn't like the idea of getting a haircut so I decided not to play. I am too short for basketball and too heavy for wrestling.
